

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides systems and methods relating to ultra-wide band communications. A method is provided for transmitting information using ultra-wide band transmission. The method includes allocating, for signal transmission, each of a plurality of 5 frequency sub-bands. The method further includes sending an ultra-wide band transmission comprising the information by transmitting a burst symbol cycle signal over each of the plurality of frequency sub-bands.